Illegal substitution even though he didn't participate in the play

Illegal substitution, 5 yards, 1st down

Offense did not reach the line-to-gain so it is a turnover on downs; non-player foul by the defense is enforced from the new line-to-gain. Note: I believe the answer is not correct in the choices and option B is the answer but should be "Live ball foul, B, 1/10, A-46".

A, 2/8, A-43. After the first-down play, the QB has a bloody nose. The referee stops the clock and sends the QB to his sideline. Team A head coach requests a time-out. During the time-out, the bleeding is stopped and the QB returns to the huddle.

17 responses

- Because Team A called a time-out, the QB can return
- Only an outside the 9-yard marks conference can be held
- The QB must remain in his team box for at least one down

What would you say to the coach when he requests the time-out?

17 responses

Coach, your QB must remain out of the game for one play.

Your QB still cannot play for at least 1 down. Do you still want to use your time out?

QB1 will still have to sit out one play. Do you still want it?

Player can enter after bleeding has stopped if a TO is called

The QB will still need to sit out a play, the timeout does not buy him back in.

Since we sent the player off, he must stay out for one down.

Coach, the player must be substituted for one play and cannot return even after a timeout is called.

OK

Coach, You've got 1 minute to fix him up or else you have to substitute

A bleeding player is only required to leave until the bleeding is stopped and is not required to stay out for at least one down.

QB was sent off the field and must sit out a play.

1 minute Coach

I'm sending your injured Player to the sideline. He is bleeding from the nose. Calling a timeout won't allow him to return for this play.

QB must remain out for 1 play

QB, is still an injured player, must be out for at least one play

The referee stoped the game- sit out one play. Time out is charged

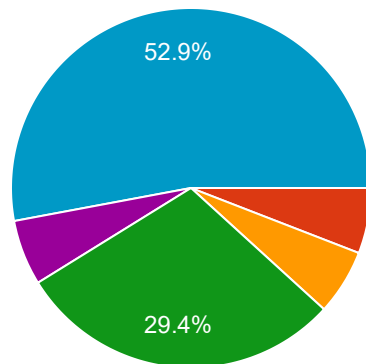

Accept the time-out. QB bleeding needs to be stopped and cleaned up before returning to the game.
